Course Description:

Successful, healthy, and productive Interpersonal relationships form the foundation of human services work. This course focuses on building self-awareness, the communication process, and the development of professional communication skills.

Learning Outcomes:

As a result of active participation in these sessions, a student can expect to:

- Explore and evaluate the role of effective communication in establishing and maintaining effective interpersonal relationships.
- Explain how the self develops and apply this information to how you would work with others and how the behaviour of others is influenced by the development of the self.
- Demonstrate how to assist oneself and others to improve self-concept.
- Identify personal communication style and develop an awareness of the importance of value clarification in communication.
- Demonstrate the application of the principles of verbal and non-verbal communication to real-life situations and case studies.
- Employ the three-part process of perception to the making of meaning and its application to communication behaviour.
- Synthesize the information on how the communication of emotion directly and indirectly impacts the ability to foster individual growth and the quality of relationships and apply its principles to communication effectiveness.
- Explore how the verbal dimension of communication reflects cultural values and perspectives and impacts on communication with Canadian society.

Course Format:

This course uses a variety of teaching/learning methods including discussion, personal reflection, experiential exercises, student presentations, role-plays, group activities and especially case studies. Our faculty aims to create a learning environment where the learner is actively engaged in inquiry, critical thinking and problem solving. The classroom provides you with a place where you can learn with and from others in a cooperative and collaborative manner.

You are expected to take a very active part in class discussions and take responsibility for your own learning. Be a positive and co-operative team member. Columbia College uses a facilitation model of instruction where the facilitator's role is to facilitate your learning. The expectation is that you will come to class prepared with pre-class homework completed. Your facilitator will engage you in activities that are based on your completed homework and readings. Your enthusiastic and positive approach in the classroom will create an atmosphere that will help every student develop the knowledge, skills and attitudes that are needed for success.

How you conduct yourself in our classes will, to a large extent, mirror your conduct in society and your future work site. For example, if you have a tendency to ask questions, challenge the ideas of others in a respectful manner, draw out the best from your colleagues, and encourage both group development and task accomplishment in this class, it is likely you will do the same at work. A high level of student involvement and developing professionalism is expected in the classroom as you work towards your goal.

Write in a reflective journaling style and turn your answers into the facilitator for grading. The paper will have a minimum length of 250 words and contain insight into each of these three questions.

Answers are to be written in the last 30 minutes of the class. No answers will be accepted that were prepared prior. If you are absent from the Summary Activity, you will receive a "zero".
