Course Description:

This course focuses on differential practices and strategies to assist educational assistants with their work in an inclusive classroom. Planning and working with various exceptionalities will be studied such as Learning and Behaviour exceptionalities, intellectual Disabilities and Autism Spectrum Disorder, and Communication exceptionalities. Issues related to inclusive schools, including diversity and equity, will also be explored. Students will learn how to develop an inclusive climate and how to develop a relationship with students, parents, and other key stakeholders involved in inclusion of students with exceptionalities.

Learning Outcomes:

As a result of active participation in these sessions, a student can expect to:

- Describe the current state of social inclusion and inclusion education in Canada; the concepts of universal design for learning, differentiated instruction, and progress monitoring; and the various exceptionalities that are identified across Canada
- Understand the role of the classroom teacher and the Education Assistant in identifying the needs of exceptional learners and in carrying out adaptations; collaboration with colleagues and parents; and developing individual education plans
- Identify exceptionalities and the ways one can adapt or differentiate teaching for different types of exceptional students
- Explain how one can differentiate for students with intellectual disabilities, including accommodations and modifications in order to meet the learning and social needs of students
- Discuss a range of communication and physical exceptionalities, including chronic health conditions that may affect learning and social participation and how one can differentiate instruction and use adaptations for such students
- Discuss how teachers and Education Assistants can address the needs of students from diverse backgrounds, including Aboriginal students, the strategies that can be used, and how to respond to incidents of inequity in the classroom
- Identify the key elements in developing an inclusive classroom climate and community, including classroom management techniques
- Describe universal design for learning and differentiated instruction
- Analyze how to conduct assessments of exceptional students, including using the ADAPT strategy
- Become familiar with social development and social acceptance of exceptional learners, including the role of friendship, school programs, and the community
- Understand the importance of transitions in the life of exceptional children and the role of advocacy, strategies for enhancing transitions, and the importance of collaboration

Course Format:

This course uses a variety of teaching/learning methods including discussion, personal reflection, experiential exercises, student presentations, role-plays, group activities and especially case studies. Our faculty aims to create a learning environment where the learner is actively engaged in inquiry, critical thinking and problem solving. The classroom provides you with a place where you can learn with and from others in a cooperative and collaborative manner.

You are expected to take a very active part in class discussions and take responsibility for your own learning. Be a positive and co-operative team member. Columbia College uses a facilitation model of instruction where the facilitator's role is to facilitate your learning. The expectation is that you will come to class prepared with pre-class homework completed. Your facilitator will engage you in activities that are based on your completed homework and readings. Your enthusiastic and positive approach in the classroom will create an atmosphere that will help every student develop the knowledge, skills and attitudes that are needed for success.

How you conduct yourself in our classes will, to a large extent, mirror your conduct in society and your future work site. For example, if you have a tendency to ask questions, challenge the ideas of others in a respectful manner, draw out the best from your colleagues, and encourage both group development and task accomplishment in this class, it is likely you will do the same at work. A high level of student involvement and developing professionalism is expected in the classroom as you work towards your goal.

Appendix 1 Assignment Outlines

Please Note: All assignments, quizzes, and final exam must be completed in order to pass this course.

Research Assignment

Due Date: Class 8

Weight: 30%

This assignment will enable you to explore an area within the field of Inclusion and apply it to the classroom. You have explored various kinds of exceptional learners, including those with learning, behavior, intellectual, communication, and physical exceptionalities. You are to choose one of these types of exceptional learners, and explore the topic more thoroughly than is presented in the text. What classroom strategies would you use in order to effectively differentiate instruction and assess student progress in order to meet the student's learning and social needs? What are the implications if this is not done? Your research assignment is not to be a review of material in the text, but rather an expanded, more thorough learning that may be relevant to you now or in the future. Use APA standards and provide at least five academic references from ProQuest and/or Gale in addition to the course text. Maximum length is 1500 words. The report will have a title page, body, and reference page. Students will be evaluated according to the Research Rubric attached.

Quizzes

Due Date: Each class from classes 1 through 8.

Weight: 20%

Students will be expected to read the assigned chapters in the text and other assigned readings and be prepared to write a graded quiz based on these reading assignments.

Summary Activities

Due Date: Daily

Weight: 10%

Students will be expected to do a reflective response that is centered on what was discussed and learned during the class. This will be done during the last 30 minutes of the class. If you are absent, you will receive a "zero". You may appeal the decision by following the Appeal Policy.

Leading Discussion Assignment

Due date:

Weight: 10%

Each student will conduct a 15-minute discussion based on one of the 9 videos developed by Alberta Education at education.alberta.ca/admin/supportingstudentn/inclusiveedvideoseris/. More than one student can conduct a discussion on a particular video but base the discussion on a different area of the video. Each video has a conversation guide. All videos should be viewed by the class and discussed. Students will be evaluated according to the Oral Presentation Rubric attached.

Final Exam

Due Date: Class 10

Weight: 30%

Students will be required to write a final exam covering the content of classroom learning and assigned text and other readings. The exam will consist of approximately 125 multiple-choice questions.
